A. J. BATTLE, Ch'n.

15. On motion, the regular order of business was suspended to allow Rev. I. R. Arnold, the Tuscaloosa Home Missionary, to make his annual Report. Whereupon, Bro Arnold submitted a very interesting written and verbal report, which was followed by instructive and appropriate addresses from several of the brethren. Rev. C. Manly being requested by the Association to preach upon the subject of Missions, proceeded forthwith to discharge that duty.

Rev. A. J. Battle then presented the following Resolutions, which were unanimously adopted :

1. Resolved, That the present time seems to be peculiarly marked by Providence in the development and advancement of the Redeemer's Kingdom, by opening new fields of Missionary labor, removing ancient barriers, and awakening a spirit of earnest zeal in the hearts of his people throughout the world, and that the signs of the times appeal powerfully to us to put our hands to this work, and to "come up to the help of the Lord."

2. Resolved, That the wants of the Southern Board of Domestic Missions, demand our active sympathy, and summon us to the rescue of this important agency in our denominational enterprise.

The Committee appointed to report on the propriety and order of Missionary meetings among the Churches for the ensuing year, submitted the following:

We deem it unnecessary to present any lengthened argument in favor of holding such meetings, in as much as we believe that this Association heartily recognises the furtherance of the Missionary cause as one of its principal objects, as the 2nd Article of the Constitution asserts. And we believe that no better way of interesting the Churches within our bounds in this important subject can be devised, than by an earnest engagement in meetings for that special purpose.

We, therefore, recommend that the last week in July, 1860, (beginning Saturday before the 4th Sunday, and including the following Sunday) be spent by the Churches in holding meetings in the following order:

FIRST DISTRICT.—Siloam, Saturday and Sunday; Cedar Grove, Monday; Liberty, Tuesday; Mt. Zion, Wednesday; Mt. Olive, Thursday; Big Hurrican, Friday; Davis's Creek, Saturday and Sunday.

SECOND DISTRICT.—South Sandy, Saturday and Sunday; Big Sandy, Monday; Little Sandy, Tuesday; Hopewell, Wednesday; Ruhama, Thursday; Tuscaloosa, Friday; Pleasant Field, Sat. and Sunday.

THIRD DISTRICT.—Black Warrior, Saturday and Sunday; Piny Grove, Monday; Chapel Hill, Tuesday; Bethabara, Wednesday; Friendship, Thursday; Walter's Meeting-House, Friday; Concord, Sat. & Sun.

FOURTH DISTRICT.—Bethany, Saturday and Sunday; Dunn's Creek, Monday; Bethesda, Tuesday and Wednesday; Mt. Tabor, Thursday; Spring Hill, Friday; Moore's Bridge, Saturday and Sunday.

It is hoped that the brethren from the neighboring Churches will attend as far as possible, as there will be preaching at all these points; and it is also hoped that the private members will take part in discussing the matters brought before them. The members of each Church can provide as they think best for taking collections for Missionary purposes. We beg that the Moderator of the Association be empowered to appoint a Committee of four to report what ministers be requested to attend the foregoing meetings.

SETH BOWEN, C. MANLY,
M. B. HASSELL, J. SARTIN.

The report was adopted, and the Moderator appointed J. Fox, John Thomas, S. W. Eddins, and L. Pumphrey, to constitute the Committee contemplated; who, after retiring a short time, made the following report, which was adopted:

FIRST DISTRICT.—A. J. Battle, J. P. Thompson, Sr., B. Jennings, W. Watkins and A. M. Bryant.

SECOND DISTRICT.—Dr. J. S. Bacon, R. Dodson, J. Price, J. H. Foster, M. Chism, F. Smith, J. H. Lowry and R. Furman.

FOURTH DISTRICT.—C. Manly, J. Thomas, R. Jones, — Carter, — Brent, — Dyer, — Hollingsworth and E. Howell.

J. FOX, Ch'n.

On motion, the query sent up by Friendship Church, was taken up, pending which, the Association adjourned to-morrow morning, 9 o'clock.

TUESDAY, Sept. 20th, 1859.

The Association met pursuant to adjournment. Prayer by Rev. I. R. Arnold.

20. In reply to the query sent up by Friendship Church, the following Resolution was adopted:—Resolved, That the Association deems that Friendship Church have not fully complied with the Constitutional requisitions in presenting the written query to this body, and the Association respectfully declines to take action upon it at this time.

CIRCULAR LETTER.

DENOMINATIONAL IDOLATRY REPROVED.

[An extract from the Introductory Sermon preached before the Georgia Baptist Convention, April 22nd, 1859, by Rev. C. D. MALLARY. Published by the So. Bap. Pub. Soc. at Charleston, S. C.]

"Is there not evidently amongst men such a kind of idolatry as this? I think so; and Baptists, unfortunately, come in for their share. Through the influence of the remaining corruptions of our hearts, a kind of denominational pride and self-glorying often springs up, which is not right in the sight of God, and which involves in it the sin of idolatry. This I call denominational idolatry. And with reference to this kind of idolatry, as well as every other, the Saviour speaks to us through his servant John, Little children, keep yourselves from idols.

1. We must not make an idol of our denominational sentiments.

All scriptural truth is of vast importance. Every single principle inculcated in the word of God has its own appropriate work to do in sanctifying the hearts of men, demolishing the strongholds of error, and laying the foundation, and carrying up the superstructure, of the Redeemer's kingdom on earth. None but God himself can properly estimate the absolute value of any one single truth communicated in his blessed word. If, therefore, Baptists, in the providence of God, are put in charge of the advocacy and defence of certain truths which either are wholly rejected, or slightly held by other religious denominations, God has certainly put upon them peculiar honors, and invested them with the most mighty responsibilities. They must be faithful to their trust. The pulpit and the press must speak out through them in intelligible, affectionate, and earnest accents. They must not be ashamed of their sentiments. Neither through sinful timidity, nor an equally sinful man-pleasing spirit, must they fail to set forth to all the world those peculiar, important views as to the ordinances of Christ, as to the order of God's house, which the Lawgiver of Zion has committed to their keeping. But they must be careful that their sacred principles be not allowed, through the deceitfulness of sin, to minister to the idolatrous tendencies of the human heart. In an abstract, absolute sense, we cannot value too highly our denominational principles; but, in the comparative view which we take of the various doctrines and duties of the Christian system, we may unconsciously give them a prominence unauthorized by the word of God. In our denominational zeal we may break the just proportion of things. We may so dwell on the peculiarities of our order, as to create an impression on our own minds that we are better Christians than we really are—that so we are thoroughly, profoundly baptistic, we have attained to the main thing. * We must never forget that there are other great and important truths which demand our reverence and our zeal; and in the general, aggregate instructions which we give, we must see to it that every one receive his portion of meat in due season. Whenever our denominational peculiarities so absorb our affections and our zeal as to crowd from their due position other portions of the divine testimony, they are made to assume in our hearts, as it were, the character of idols; and in this perverted shape, by being forced to break the due proportion and boundaries of divine truth, they invade unwittingly the just rights of God, and are the occasion of dishonor to his cause. All this is wrong. This is a service which God does not require at our hands. But, in making these remarks, I do not wish to be understood as forgetting, that there may be times when God providentially calls for the special and bold discussion of our denominational doctrines; and that God sometimes raises up men whose duty it seems to be to devote a large portion of their lives and labors to the defence of these peculiar views. But in such cases, that wisdom which is from above, will teach us to be careful not to lift the Baptist element out of its true scriptural position, and that the perversion of which I have been speaking be properly guarded against by a due recognition of the other teachings of God's holy oracles.

There is another way in which our denominational sentiments may be made the occasion of nourishing the idolatrous tendency of our deceitful hearts. In contending for them, we may be, to a greater or less extent, sinfully forgetful that they are God's truth. We may sometimes lose sight of the precious, golden link, which binds them to the throne of Jehovah. We may fight for them as our truth, our dogmas, rather than as the teachings of the Saviour. We may contend for personal victory. We may become, through the deceitfulness of the heart, intensely sectarian. We may so identify our own little mighty selves with the theme which we defend, that, to a greater or less extent, we fall to loving Baptist truth, and glorying in the Baptist cause, because these are such capital things with which to fight ourselves—Nebuchadnezzar-like—into a little notoriety in the religious world. Baptists must keep their hearts with all diligence as well as other people. The very best of them are sanctified but in part; they are still exposed to the assaults of pride and vain glory. In contending for our sacred principles, we must not unlink them from God's throne, and make an idol of them; but, keeping them firmly bound to that throne, we must set them forth with the spirit of holy boldness, and childlike humility, that Christ, our King, may be duly honored. As far as a mere partisan, sectarian glorying in our principles animates our zeal, and makes us forgetful of God's glory, and the inherent majesty of truth, so far the very truth itself is crucified into an occasion for displeasing God, and ministering to the flesh; and thereby we fall into an error of a certain people of old, who paid a selfish and mistaken honor to their nets and their drags, that brought them advantage. "Therefore, they sacrifice unto their net, and burn incense unto their drag, because by them their portion is fat, and their meat plenteous." Hab. i. 16. Little children keep yourselves from idols."
